

Holding 372,000 German Prisoners of War

A Presentation by Dr. Michael J. Greenberg

Seventy-two years ago, when World War II ended, two forts in Rhode Island were converted into colleges to educate and enlighten former Nazi soldiers on the virtues of democracy and how to run a democratic government upon their return to Germany. Who were some of the lead instructors at these forts? Jews!

Dr. Greenberg's presentation will focus on how the Jewish GIs wound up at German POW camps in the U.S., their experiences with Germans and the U.S. Army, and how all this shaped their lives and what they did post World War II.
